

When BWSI began in 1981, the use of computers in the staffing industry, as well as in most industries, was in its infancy. Today, the choices and offerings for all types of hardware and software products are nearly overwhelming. But there is one thing that has not changed in all that time – the need for practical solutions to real-world business problems.

At BWSI, we have never lost sight of the fact that technology alone does not solve problems. Problems get solved when people listen to other people's needs, and provide products and services that address those needs. At BWSI, we take pride in the advanced technology we apply to our customers' business requirements. We have ASP access available, remote online support, internet products and exceptional software to supply our customers with all of the tools necessary to efficiently operate their businesses. We even provide complete back office services integrated with this technology to help companies that want to stay focused on their core competencies. But where we distinguish ourselves is in our ability to listen. We know that in order to be a real solution, we must understand the problems our customers have before we can help solve them.

I invite you to call us and talk to one of our experienced and knowledgeable staff members. See what it is like to have someone listen to you before they try to sell you something. It's people – not technology – who get things done. At BWSI we never forget that, and we are ready to help you now.

Bill DeBarba
President & CEO